Mother, son reading by the window, beside the Mango tree on a Summer afternoon. It matches very well with a colourful home decor (Indian/bohemian). It will look beautiful against both neutral coloured walls and bright walls. Can be a great gift to a parent, loved ones.

Artist Profile: Soma Chakraborty Debnath

I am a self-taught Indian folk artist.My most favourite Indian folk art form is Madhubani. My art is inspired by nature, mythology, folk tales and everyday life. I try to bring forward the cultures of Indian tradition, the relationship of people and provide an perspective of the not-so-widely-spoken-of life of some community of a faraway land.

Madhubani or Mithila painting is a style of folk painting, practiced in the Mithila region of eastern Indian state Bihar. The art form is named after the village of its origin, Madhubani (translation: Forest of Honey).

Madhubani paintings mostly showcase nature, Hindu social and cultural events and activities of day to day life.
