A portrait of Steve Boyer. An amazing person and friend who inspired many of us in Leamington and Warwick to play music and paint. Diagnosed with cancer in 2014 he never stopped raising money and playing music. The profits made from every print sale will be given to his charities which are based around paving instruments to children and local hospices.

Artist Profile: Rupam R Barthakur

I'm Rupam....

I was lucky to be surrounded by art for most of my life. From early memories of my Dad painting huge faces on white sheets as backdrops for a local theatre group, to him always having a canvas or sketchbook on the go. I was hooked. He taught me how the skeleton worked and I've never really lost my desire to capture the figure in motion.

Later on I lived in West Cornwall for several years, surrounded by a vibrant artistic community. I absorbed as much of the methods and approaches I saw, especially of using colour and tonal values. More importantly I was impressed by how art (whether it was painting, writing, film making or acting) was simply a way of life.

Over the last 14 years my studio practice has developed from learning directly from other artists who I admire, to developing my own way of painting.
